SUBJECT:

Consumer Privacy Protection Act

STAT

1. Congresswoman Collins (D-Illinois) has introduced legislation (H.R. 296) that would amend the Privacy Act. The amendments would modify the definition of what is a "system of records" and a "routine use" under the Privacy Act. The bill also would create a Privacy Commission to study and make recommendations regarding use and abuse of data on individuals by private organizations. This Commission would be empowered to request data from other federal agencies, but it is unclear whether the Commission could force other federal agencies to provide such data.

2. I would appreciate receiving your comments on the H.R. 269, which is attached, at your convenience.
